

Postcard from the author

18 December 2013

What a lovely letter! Thank you very much. I'm so glad you had a good time doing TH and got so much out of them. I'm trying to get the BBC to repeat them next year but without much hope. I've written one or twice about stillborn babies - I don't know why as they didn't happen in my childhood. There's one in People my latest stage play (which also gets wrapped up in newspaper). I wish I could write more TH but they were like poems - they came to me almost without thought or preparation & I haven't been able to write any since. But letters like yours do make me think about having another go. Please thank everyone involved from the grateful author.

Alan Bennett.